

Leading and Lagging Indicators

Radar speed checks have not had the desired effect due to operators are aware of where the radar speed checks are conducted, then falling into compliance. Therefore, LRT will increase when and how speed checks are conducted and increase coaching of operators on speeding incidents, with the expectation that speeding will be reduced as a result of more one-on-one coaching. The leading indicators below have been developed and will be evaluated per run board to see if the desired effect is achieved.

- ☑ 75% of Operators receive unobserved speed checks per run board, $190 \times 75\% = 142$ unobserved checks
- ☑ 50% of the unobserved speed checks are to be conducted on the train, $142/2 = 71$ unobserved on train
- ☑ 25% of Operators receive observed speed checks, e.g., announced, visible along alignment
- ☑ Speed checks will be conducted evenly throughout the day, to include:
 - 33% morning, 0000 – 1200 hours
 - 34% mid-day, 1201 – 1800 hours
 - 33% evening, 1801 – 2359 hours

LRT operations will establish a baseline on operating rule speed violations and subsequent coaching. The goal is to increase coaching by 5% which, in turn, will reduce operating infractions by 5%.

Evaluating speed is a priority factor. Evaluated the number of radar checks over the last 5 months. Evaluation indicates a large number of radar checks, 14,239 checks, have been conducted with minimal speeding violations, less than .009% (13 violations), and yet speeding incidents continue to occur. Therefore, increase when and how speed checks are conducted and increase coaching of operators (non-punitive) on speeding incidents expecting that speeding will be reduced as a result of more coaching.

-☑ Establish baseline on operating rule violations and subsequent counseling/coaching, then reduce operating infractions by 5% or increase coaching by 5%.
